Aims and Objectives

1. To offer a multidisciplinary postgraduate formation on the European Union, its evolution and its international importance.
2. To form 25 specialists in EU constitution, policies and human rights every year by means of a stringent theoretical-practical approach.
3. To further attract top level professors and experts to UCAM.
4. To internationalize student formation by increasing their mobility through visits to European institutions in Brussels.

Background

This degree is the first of its kind, providing a complete formation in all aspects of the European Union, an institution which has a continuous, prevailing impact on global events and on the lives of Europeans and those beyond this continent.

The faculty's large team of researchers come from various academic backgrounds, specializing in different aspects of the European policies & EU legislation. Their experiences combined with their extensive knowledge provide students of this Master's degree with an interdisciplinary program, which allows graduates to obtain a broad and comprehensive understanding of the intricacies of the European Union. Our academic staff includes a large number of civil servants and consultancy experts involved in the daily practices of the European Union.

This Master's in European Union Studies and Human Rights is an innovative degree within the educational field. Its incorporation of face-to-face formation, the active involvement of students of various nationalities, combined visits to European institutions, and our mixed approach to the academic and professional formation of the student makes UCAM's Master's in European Union Studies and Human Rights a rigorous, innovative and top quality program. Moreover, the course also includes a work placement of 210 hours.

Fully imparted in English, this Master's degree offers graduates a highly comprehensive training at European administrative level. The program is aimed at graduates from all academic backgrounds, including Political Sciences, Law, Social & Communication Sciences, Business Administration, History and other subjects of the Humanities. Future lawyers working on European legislation are also more than welcome to enroll.
