

MASTER'S IN INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

UNIVERSITY IN EUROPE FOR QUALITY OF EDUCATION

COMMENCEMENT

January

LOCATION

Online Modality

DURATION

One Academic Year

TUITION FEE

€ 5,300

CREDITS

60 ECTS

SEATS

25

Student Profile

The master in International Relations is designed to be perfectly suited to the needs of students from Law, Economy, Media Studies, Political Science and adjacent and related areas of knowledge.

Young people interested in following careers in business, the third sector and NGOs, international organizations, the diplomatic service or the military will enjoy and greatly benefit from the program. The master is an ideal complement for professionals of all paths interested in developing an essential understanding of the dynamics of international relations and global trends, with a focus on strengthening analytical competences to put knowledge into practice in real situations.

Background

The master in International Relations offers a global mindset and interdisciplinary studies in key subjects to jump start a career with international institutions, non-governmental and governmental organizations, and private companies operating globally or mature, update and reinforce analytical skills and judgment for decision making in professionals of different fields confronting the complexities of the current international order.

The major of the master is designed to train students to fully understand the main parameters of the international contemporary environment, so as to boost their careers in companies, NGOs, and international private and public institutions. Our goal is to provide update, useful, outstanding preparation for careers with a global reach.

Objectives

- Gain critical understanding of key issues and concepts in world affairs and international relations as well as practical knowledge they could leverage in their professional project.
- Master analytical skills and critical thinking.
- Be able to perform in both bilateral and multilateral working environments with increased confidence.

Career Opportunities

The master in International Relations prepares students for careers in the private and public sector.

The program responds to the growing need for highly trained figures within private companies, international organizations, the traditional diplomatic sector, the military, the media and other international actors from churches to NGOs, so as to make them capable of handling successfully both old and new emerging challenges. Graduates of the program may begin careers in the internationalization departments of private companies, universities, the military; with international and European organizations; or as specialists in international and European politics, international affairs reporters, journalists, private consultants or consultants to the armed forces.

Curriculum

MODULE	CREDITS
I. International Relations	10 ECTS
II. The Global Economy	10 ECTS
III. Peace, Security and Defense	10 ECTS
IV. The Euro-Atlantic Space	12 ECTS
V. Asia Pacific Area	4 ECTS
VI. Africa And The Middle East	4 ECTS
VII. Final Master's Work	10 ECTS

