

CURRÍCULUM

Daniel J. Julius

Dr. Daniel J. Julius is a Professor at New Jersey City University, an Adjunct Professor at the University at Albany, State University of New York, and a Visiting Fellow at Yale University, School of Management. From 2014 to 2019 he was the Senior Vice President and Provost at New Jersey City University and Adjunct Professor at New York University. In past years he has lectured at Cornell University, the University of California, Berkeley, Stanford University, the University of New Hampshire, and Columbia University. His expertise is in the following areas: industrial labor relations, higher education administration, power and influence, human resources, organizational behavior, and international relations. He has significant international experience and has been a Fulbright Specialist and Lecturer in Asia, Europe, the Middle East, Canada, and Ecuador, a Visiting Scholar at the International Labor Organization in Switzerland, and has lectured at Fudan University, Shenyang Jianzhu, and the University of Shanghai in the Peoples Republic of China. He has also been invited to speak at UCAM in past years. During his career he served as the Academic Vice President/Provost for three institutions/systems; in Alaska, Illinois, and New Jersey, and earlier in his career he served as Associate Vice President for Academic Affairs at the University of San Francisco and as Assistant Vice Chancellor for the California State University System. Dr. Julius has edited 13 books, authored 90 articles, book chapters, reviews, and monographs, and made over 170 presentations at professional associations, universities, and corporations. He holds an undergraduate degree from The Ohio State University, studied at Cornell University (ILR), and earned graduate degrees at Columbia University. He completed a post-doctoral fellowship at Stanford University.